

VET IN SCHOOLS

A PATHWAY TO POST-SCHOOL EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING

VET in Schools (VETiS) refers to the vocational education and training (VET) undertaken by school students as part of their senior secondary certificate of education. The VET in Schools arrangement offers two main options: most students undertake VET subjects and courses as part of their school curriculum while some students undertake school-based apprenticeships and traineeships.

This infographic is based on the reports Australian vocational education and training statistics: VET in Schools 2016 and VET in Schools students: characteristics and post-school employment and training, both of which are available from the NCVER Portal <<https://www.ncver.edu.au>>.

2006

Top training packages

- 1 Tourism, travel & hospitality
- 2 Business services
- 3 Information & communication technology

VETiS students

Top 3 Fields of education

- Management & commerce
- Food, hospitality & personal services
- Information technology

Students by qualification level

2016

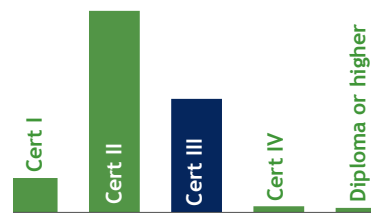

VETiS students

Top training packages

- 1 Tourism, travel & hospitality
- 2 Sport, fitness & recreation
- 3 Business services

Students by qualification level

Top 3 Fields of education

- Society & culture
- Management & commerce
- Food, hospitality & personal services

2011 (5 years after participating in VETiS...)

56% working only

23% studying and working

9% studying only

13% not studying or working

76% working full-time earn over $31 200

Many trade workers in jobs related to their VETiS study

By 2011, 42% of 2006 VETiS students had attained a non-school qualification.

